

2011 Census: Key Statistics for Herefordshire

The 2011 Census took place on March 27th 2011. The following tables present the key facts and figures about the county of Herefordshire, how they compare to England & Wales, and where possible how they changed over the 10 years between the 2001 and 2011 censuses.

The sum of all categories within each table is highlighted in pink at the top; these total counts are used as the base (denominator) to calculate percentages. Particularly useful key points are shown in bold, at the top of each table.

Analyses of the Census results will be published on the Facts and Figures about Herefordshire Census page and links will be added to the relevant sections of this document.

Population

Usual resident population

For the latest data and analysis of the population of Herefordshire see - www.herefordshire.gov.uk/factsandfigures/population.aspx

A usual resident of the UK is anyone who, on census day, was in the UK and had stayed or intended to stay in the UK for a period of 12 months or more, or had a permanent UK address and was outside the UK and intended to be outside the UK for less than 12 months. Note that students were counted at their term-time address and armed forces personnel were counted at their permanent or family home even if the majority of their time was spent at their 'working' address.

⁽ⁱⁱ⁾ The 2001 Census figures correspond to men aged 65+ and women aged 60+

⁽ⁱⁱⁱ⁾ A dependent child is a person aged 0 to 15 in a household (whether or not in a family) or aged 16 to 18 in full-time education and living in a family with his or her parent(s). It does not include any children who have a spouse, partner or child living in the household.

^(iv) The 'same-sex civil' category did not exist in 2001

Homes

A household is defined as one person living alone, or a group of people (not necessarily related) living at the same address who share cooking facilities and share a living room or sitting room or dining area. One household occupies one household space. If there are multiple household spaces in a building which have their own cooking facilities but share washing facilities, this is a shared dwelling. Otherwise, the household space occupies an unshared dwelling.

Dwellings

A dwelling is a building or other structure that can be lived in. See above for the difference between a shared and an unshared dwelling.

⁽ⁱ⁾ This category provides a measure of whether a household's accommodation is overcrowded or under occupied. There are two measures of occupancy rating, one based on the number of rooms in a household's accommodation, and one based on the number of bedrooms. The ages of the household members and their relationships to each other are used to derive the number of rooms/bedrooms they require.

Health and care

Health and provision of unpaid care

Limiting Long-Term Illness is defined as anyone who felt that their day-to-day activities are limited because of a health problem or disability which has lasted, or is expected to last, at least 12 months (including problems related to old age). Limiting Long-Term Illness is often used as a proxy for disability.

Health is a self-assessment of a person's general state of health. People were asked to assess whether their health was very good, good, fair, bad or very bad.

A person is a provider of unpaid care if they look after or give help or support to family members, friends, neighbours or others because of long-term physical or mental ill health or disability, or problems related to old age.

Deprivation

Household deprivation

A household is defined as one person living alone, or a group of people (not necessarily related) living at the same address who share cooking facilities and share a living room or sitting room or dining area.

A household is classified as being deprived in none, or one to four of various 'dimensions of deprivation', including Employment; Education; Health & disability, and; Housing.

Note that this is possibly related to the Indices of Deprivation produced by the Department for Communities & Local Government (see www.herefordshire.gov.uk/factsandfigures/deprivation.aspx for further information about the latest Indices of Deprivation for Herefordshire).
